Dr Shaun Conway
Founder and CEO
iXo

- Dr Shaun Conway is a South African technologist, medical doctor, and innovator who has extensive experience leading ambitious public health, research and social development initiatives, working with agencies such as the WHO, World Bank and UNICEF, government governments, civil society organisations, and multinational corporations.
- As the founder of IXO, over the past decade he has been pioneering the development of an Internet of Impacts, using Web3 and AI technologies.
- He describes this convergence of technologies as being like "A global digital immune system for Earth and Humanity".
